

All About Autism

By: _____

Autism is a condition, that effects people in many ways. That is why we call it a spectrum, because like the colors in the rainbow, every person who has Autism is unique.

People who are Autistic have differences in their brain, that impact how they view, understand, and interact with the world around them. A person with Autism may do things that are strange to you, like making sounds or flapping their hands.

A person with Autism might also become upset by things that don't bother you, like loud sounds and bright lights. Just like you, if a person with Autism is upset, they may need a moment in a calm, quiet space to calm down.

I can be a good friend to someone with Autism by:

.

---

---

